

Temple Ewell Pupils Named Changemakers!

We are proud to announce that our pupils at Temple Ewell Church of England Primary School have successfully completed the Transform Our World programme, making a lasting impact on environmental awareness in our school and community.

Tackling Plastic Pollution Through Creativity

Throughout this inspiring project, students explored their values, learned about local and global environmental issues, and focused on the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). After much brainstorming and planning, the group decided to address the problem of plastic pollution in our oceans by creating animal sculptures made from recycled materials.

These sculptures were not just creative expressions but powerful symbols to highlight the dangers of plastic waste in our seas.

Sharing the Message

Our changemakers didn't stop there! They recorded mini-films sharing their thoughts and feelings about the project and its importance. To spread awareness further, they held a whole-school assembly, presenting their work and educating fellow students on the importance of protecting marine life and reducing plastic waste.

A Legacy of Learning

To ensure their message lives on, the students selected books on sea life and plastic pollution for the school class libraries. These resources will continue to inspire their peers to care for our oceans and become environmental stewards themselves.

The Journey Continues

This project marks just the beginning of our pupils' journey as changemakers. Their dedication, creativity, and passion have shown that everyone has a role to play in protecting our environment. We are incredibly proud of their hard work and the positive impact they've made.

Congratulations to all the students involved—you are truly making waves for change!
