

Elms Class

This term we are flying over to China to learn more about their customs and culture and the influence China has on the world we live in. As part of our learning, we will be going to the British Museum in London at the end of February to explore the different Chinese artefacts and the history behind them.

Our literacy work will be linked to our Chinese focus as we begin to explore different traditional tales as well as non-fiction writing including newspapers.

Multiplication and division is our focus over the next two terms, building on from practical application through to a more formal written method. As part of our learning we will be continuing to learn our times tables to help us.

We will be learning about rocks and their properties within Science this term and will be investigating these through experiments.

'What is the Trinity?' is the big question to explore within our R.E lessons this term.
